(FOR ADDRESS ONLY.)

A Blizzard, the dread of the Russian traveller. These sudden and fierce storms are frequently met with in the plains of central Russia especially in winter time. The wind blows with hurricane force and the air is laden with snow and sleet rendering progress difficult and well nigh impossible; terror seizes the horses and confuses the driver; lays hold on the rein, so that unless help be near, both are doomed to a miserable end.

Processed in Russia.

A Billiard, the most popular game in the world, is played on a billiard table, which is usually 10 feet long and 5 feet wide. The table is covered with a green cloth, and the balls are made of ivory or bone. The game is played with a cue, and the balls are struck in a way that they will travel in a straight line.
